

STIRRUP COURAGE

Equestrian Learning Center

Partnering with horses to support children who face difficult life situations.

Stirrup Courage is a new, local non-profit serving families in the Wayne County area (located at 823 South Kohler Road, between Kidron, Dalton, and Orrville). We offer the opportunity for engaging, progressive lessons in horse care, safe horse handling, and riding, for children going through difficult life experiences such as foster care, adoption, divorce, loss of a family member, or living in poverty. Lessons are made accessible to families through scholarships for up to the full cost of a session, and are made possible by a team of caring volunteers.

We are looking for PARTNERSHIPS with local businesses to help us complete our Barn Raising Capital Campaign goals to build our barn, indoor riding arena, and a comfortable indoor gathering space and viewing area for families, to be ready to open the facility for new students in spring of 2022!

Will you PARTNER with us in our mission to encourage at-risk children and youth with the gift of unconditional friendship with a horse?

The attached form offers opportunities for Business Partnerships at various levels, with the accompanying donor recognition and business promotion options. You may choose to fill out the form and return it by mail, or one of our board members would be glad to return and pick it up directly.

Sponsorship checks can be made out to “Stirrup Courage.” If your business sells a product you’d like to donate as a gift in-kind that the program could use, or provides a service you’d like to offer as a gift, we welcome support in those ways as well!

If you have questions and would like to speak to someone more directly about our program, you may contact Director Tara Steiner: stirrupcourage@gmail.com, text or call 330-749-6933.
